DON’T JUST SAY NO

Two roads diverged in a wood,
and I... I took the one less traveled by, And that has made all the difference.

–Robert Frost,
The Road Not Taken

What does it feel like when you . . .

Give in? Initially? Later On?

Hold your ground? Initially? Later On?

LORI’S STORY

“My friend asked if she could use my I.D. one night so she could get into some clubs. I felt really bad saying no because I didn’t want her to be mad at me. It put me in an awkward position. I told my roommate what had happened and then my friend asked my roommate for her I.D.
Because I had already said no, it gave my roommate the strength to also say no. We both felt bad and really good at the same time.”

We know what happens to people who stay in the middle of the road. They get run over:

–Aneurin Bevan,
The Observer, 1953

CROSSROAD
In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and besieged it. And the Lord delivered Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, along with some of the articles from the temple of God. These he carried off to the temple of his god in Babylonia and put in the treasure house of his god.

Then the king ordered Ashpenaz, chief of his court officials, to bring in some of the Israelites from the royal family and the nobility—young men without any physical defect, handsome, showing aptitude for every kind of learning, well informed, quick to understand, and qualified to serve in the king’s palace. He was to teach them the language and literature of the Babylonians. The king assigned them a daily amount of food and wine from the king’s table. They were to be trained for three years, and after that they were to enter the king’s service.

Among these were some from Judah: Daniel, Hananiah, Mishel and Azariah. The chief official gave them new names: to Daniel, the name Beltshazzar; to Hananiah, Shadrach; to Mishael, Meshach; and to Azariah, Abednego.

But Daniel resolved not to defile himself with the royal food and wine, and he asked the chief official for permission not to defile himself this way.
Rachel and Sean were growing Christians and wanted God to be a part of their relationship. They had been dating 4 months when Sean invited her to go to his out-of-town formal. As was the norm, it was assumed that they would share a hotel room together. At first they felt uncomfortable with it, but at the beginning of their relationship, they decided to not be sexually active so they knew nothing would happen if they stayed in the same room. They thought, “No big deal,” and shared a room.

Cassandra trusted Christ as her Savior. She began to learn she was a new creation in Christ and pulled away from everything that was “old.”

Cassandra thought:
- “I don’t want to hang out with non-Christians. They’re a bad influence on me.”
- “I don’t want to be with the girls on my hall because they are too wild.”
- “My friends will see that I don’t do those things anymore and know that I am a Christian.”

Her friends thought:
- “Cassandra thinks she’s better than us. She’s holier than thou.”
- “Cassandra doesn’t like us anymore. All she likes are her Christian friends.”
- “She won’t do anything with us anymore. Christians are so exclusive but they’re supposed to be loving.”

What would Daniel say to Rachel and Sean?
What would Daniel say to Cassandra?

Describe a time when you were pressured to do something wrong?

If you had given in?
If you didn’t?

Do you tend to be a Rachel/Sean or a Cassandra?
It had been hard for such a young believer. The word had gotten around the fraternity that Dan had become a Christian. There were a good number of brothers who weren’t very happy about it. So they turned up the heat. They talked behind his back and they mocked him to his face. They even knelt down and pretended to worship him once he walked down the hall. But still he hung in there. Outside the house, his involvement with C.C.C. helped him nurture his faith. Within the house, he sought to live an exemplary life before his brothers.

Four years later, when Dan was a senior, a Campus Crusade staff man spoke to Dan’s fraternity chapter on “How You Can Know God Personally.” The living room was full. There had been a change in the house since Dan was a freshman, but the most revealing comment came from the brother who had given Dan the greatest grief. His comment card read, “If you are from the same organization that Dan is a part of, you are welcome in this house at any time.”

CONFORMITY

Where do I succumb to the pressure to conform?

What specific passages speak to this issue?

How can I “resolve” not to “defile” myself and do right?

ISOLATIONISM

Do I tend to isolate myself from relationships with unbelievers?

How does this prevent me from reaching out to them?

What can I do to strike a balance between not conforming yet not isolating myself from relationships with non-Christians?

NOTE: While compromise is never an acceptable option for the Christian, isolation is sometimes an appropriate and often necessary course of action. The biblical term is “separation.”
